

Weber Primed For Ogden A. A. Battle

Saturday Contest Will Start at 3 O'clock Sharp; Coach Watson Out to Win From Local Stars; Captain Glassmann to Be Back in Harness; Utah Plays Colorado College While Aggies Tangle With Colorado Miners

Coach Malcolm Watson's Weber Normal gridders are primed for the contest Saturday afternoon against the Ogden Athletic association's crack eleven. The Weberites will hold a light signal practice this evening. The contest Saturday afternoon is scheduled to start promptly at 3 o'clock. Lorin Farr park is the spot where the action will be displayed. More than forty gridders from the Weber school will be in harness and Coach Watson will no doubt give them all a chance to show their wares. He is extremely anxious to get a line on his aggregation and for that reason will no doubt give all of the candidates a chance to show their wares. Hallday, Wilcox and Hickman are three men expected to show a world of class for the Weberites. These men were stars of the 1919 aggregation and are expected to show a great deal of class in the Aggie contest last week and is expected to be one of the bright stars on the eleven. Glassmann will be pitted in the quarterback position.

Earl Andrew, star tackle of the local eleven, who received a severe charley horse in the Aggie contest, is again able to favor around the field and will be back in the game tomorrow. In the Saturday contest either Edwin or Reberg will be pitted on left end, while one of the two will play in the backfield. Glen Dee, Kilpatrick, Watson, Wilkerson and other stars will be in the lineup. Officials for the contest will be named today. The teams will start the game with the following lineup:

Ogden A. A. Weber Normal.
Kilpatrick, Williams, Davis, Ballantyne, Bagley, Blinckley, Price, Watson, Terry, Lewis, Glassmann (Capt.), B. Newman, Deane, Hickman, Wilkerson, Wilcox, Rehner, and Weber.

While the Ogden A. A. and Weber Normal are doing battle at Lorin Farr park the fast University of Utah grid machine will be mixing with the Colorado College eleven at Colorado Springs. Utah will be minus the services of Moose Stiefel, star halfback, but despite that fact is expected to win. The Tigers, however, have one of the best eleven in the conference and may spring a surprise on the Utahs.

In the absence of Stiefel, Gardner will be pitted in his position. The backfield will consist of Romney, Ure, Gardner and Oswald.

The MacTavish brothers are expected to be the bright stars for Colorado College. These two men are stars of the first order and both play the end position.

At Logan tomorrow afternoon the fast Utah Aggie machine will be pitted against the Colorado School of Mines. The Miners are expected to be the bright stars for the Aggies.

While these games are attracting interest galore in this section of the country the big games in the east tomorrow are also on the card. The grid game, in its fifty-first year, is surely showing class galore in all parts of the United States and from all the information received here from the east, the crowds are larger than ever before.

FED CHICKENS HOP, HE CLAIMS.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Zepporini is suing his neighbor, Gus Rucke, because his (Zepporini's) chicken invaded Rucke's garden. The chickens came back but they were never the same, according to the story, the chickens were scared and neither of them would lay eggs. "He fed 'em hop when they went for his cabbage," Zepporini declared.

WILBERT ROBINSON.
Putting pinch-hitters into world series games is a big gamble, says Wilbert Robinson. It's easy to make a big mistake. He says:

"The manager can pull bones in a series as well as his players, but he is quite often blamed for things that aren't his fault. This is particularly true of the pinch-hitter. Nothing is more uncertain than a pinch-hitter, and yet if a manager in a world series sends in a pinch-hitter who delivers the goods, he is called an able strategist. If the pinch-hitter strikes out or goes up, the manager has pulled a bone. It's the same old story of the second guess. What succeeds is right. What fails is a blunder. During the season a manager can sometimes juggle his pitching staff, conceding a few defeats here and there in order to win the greatest number of games over the stretch, but in a short series every game is so important that you must fight until the last man is out. Good breaks on sending in pinch-hitters mean a lot in world series games."

JOHN MCGRAW.
In doping out world series games experts very often pass over the managers of the clubs lightly, but in the opinion of John McGraw the pitcher figure much greater in the outcome of the series than the star players. He says:

"I would say it is more difficult to manage a winning team than a losing one. Anybody can lose and there are always plenty of alibis. The team may be ill-balanced, the manager may lack good players here and there and it's easy for him to blame his shortcomings on such well known and obvious things. But with a good team the manager's job becomes different. People expect him to win and the pace always grows hottest at the top. So, I'm certain now that Ruth isn't human. At least he does things which you couldn't expect of a mere batter with two arms and two legs. I can't explain him. Nobody can. I was with the Red Sox when he broke into the game. And he certainly broke in all right. A catcher can't figure him. All he can do is to give his pitcher a target and let him shoot. Babe can hit anything."

IS MICHIGAN COMING BACK?

The 1920 Outlook AND The Grand Old Man

STEKETEE - DUNNE - WILSON

By DEAN SNYDER
At the conclusion of the 1919 football season, gridiron followers over the country whispered that "Hurricane" Fielding H. Yost, the "Grand Old Man" of the pigskin pastime and for 15 years coach of the Ann Arbor aggregation, was passing out of the limelight. And this because the Michigan crew had an off season—as bad a season as the college had bumped into since Yost took hold of the Maize and Blue.

But the get-away of the 1920 season—the outlook for Michigan this year—has another story to tell.

Football fans didn't know the secret behind the 1919 slump. They didn't know that Connie Mack, of baseball fame, hadn't got a thing on Yost when it comes to sacrificing one season to plan on successful aggregations for seasons to come.

In 1919 most of Yost's footballers were comparatively new material. The long list of stars who had helped the Michigan colors stand 'way up there for many years, had gradually left the school. Or they were ineligible.

HARD YEAR.
So Yost took his partly "green eleven" and put 'em through a hard year. They didn't pan out well. Ohio State, Chicago and Illinois, gave Michigan good trimmings. Northwestern, Case and the Michigan Aggies fell before Yost's crew, but by small margins.

It wasn't like the "good old days" when the famous "eleven from the Ann Arbor college toppled over everything that stuck its nose in on the Michigan schedule. And that's why the football world started wondering about "Hurricane" Yost.

Now to look to the coming season. For weeks past Yost and a staff of assistants have been working night and day on a squad of about 50 huskies. Practice was started back in the early part of September.

STARS ELIGIBLE.
Ineligible, the bugbear of the stars who remained in school last season, will not hamper Yost's plans in 1920. Frank Steketee, a member of the 1918 team, and who was given the position of fullback on Walter Camp's All-American eleven, will be back on the lineup for this year. Steketee is as good a booter as they come, and he promises to be one of the national gridiron stars again this year.

Usher, Ferrin, Cohn and Jack Dunne are other players who have starred with Michigan but were among those who failed in grade marks last year, and were forced to stand on the side lines. They will all be back in line when the Maize and Blue followers turn out for the struggles this season.

DUNNE STARS.
Jack Dunne looks the best bet for Yost's quarterback, while the other three are halfback or fullback material. Fact.

In the line "Hurricane" has three strong veterans—Captain Goetz, Ted Wieman and Ernie Vick—around which to build. Dunne and Wilson will probably hold down the guard positions.

At the end, Yost is still a bit troubled as he has but one sure candidate, Goetz, from last year's freshman team. But the places will be filled well before the opening game," says Yost.

BATTLE ILINI.
Michigan's opening game, Oct. 23, with Illinois, is looked upon as the stiffest of the schedule. If this game is copped the Wolverines should have little trouble with the crackin' good lineup this season, in downing Ohio State, Chicago, Minnesota, which teams follow the Illinois class.

Yost has his mind all set to cop the first game—then he sees the Conference Title for 1920 within grasp of his eleven.

Pretty good aims, and fine chances for the "Grand Old Man of Football," who the world thought was on the skids last season.

The "low down" history of Fielding H. Yost, Michigan coach for the past 15 years, and at it again this season, is pretty high up stuff, you'll have to admit.

"The Grand Old Man of Football" went to Michigan in 1901 from Leland Stanford University where he coached in 1900.

In the 15 football seasons since that time Yost's Maize and Blue eleven won 127 games and lost 24. Eight ended in a tie. In other words, Michigan teams copped 80 per cent of the games played under the tutelage of Yost.

GREAT RECORD.
The first four years saw Michigan undefeated. Twice since then the team has held a clean record through out the season. From 1906 to and including 1919, the Michigan eleven scored 4797 points as against her opponents' 692.

Yost began his football career at West Virginia University, where he played two years and then went to Lafayette college. He played there a year and graduated in 1896. He coached Ohio Wesleyan, Nebraska, and Kansas in order.

In 1898 at Nebraska his team won the Missouri Valley Championship. Then he won it at Kansas in 1899.

"HURRY UP."
It was at Michigan that Yost was dubbed "Hurricane." He was a speed demon in drilling practice bunches.

COACH YOST

He's a crackin' good looking man. He's a crackin' good mixer and is always popular with his players. A crowd while is sort of a habit with him. He is not harsh, but is gifted when it comes to being sarcastic.

As a judge of men he has few peers. He knows which players need to be driven and which need to be coaxed.

MAKES 'EM FIGHT.
Yost's long suit is the between-period talks he has with his men. Many a game has been saved to Michigan after the first portion of play made it look hopeless. Yost simply talked them into going out and cleaning up during the final periods.

Yost likes to win and he admits he is a hard loser. He won't stand for dirty play, and swearing brings forth his wrath.

His parting word to a Michigan team just going into the field is: "Play your man just a little bit harder than he plays you, but play fair."

Yost talks, dreams, thinks and reads football.

And Michigan followers think he is going to turn out a winner this season.

BASEBALL JURY TO AGAIN MEET
Startling Disclosures Expected When Jury Convenes Next Week at Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Startling developments in connection with the re-convened special grand jury's special investigation of baseball gambling next week were predicted today by President Bau Johnson, of the American league, in discussing his reasons for sending a telegram to President Taft, of the National league, opposing as premature the conference of the club owners here Monday to form a new governing tribunal for professional baseball.

"I do not care to attend any conference to discuss a new baseball tribunal until the report of the special grand jury, which reconvenes on Tuesday, is made, and I know whom it indicts," he said.

"Its work is not finished. In fact it is my information that clues are now in hand which may lead to the disclosure of more facts than have yet been dreamed of. I believe that all attempts to reform baseball by new tribunals should be deferred until we know who's who in baseball."

"I believe the developments of the coming week will be even more surprising to the public. I believe in making a thorough house cleaning before starting to remodel the house."

TUESDAY BATTLE WAS 'FRAME-UP'
N. J. Boxing Commission to Probe Claim Carpenter-Levinsky Tilt Set-Up

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Reports circulated in sporting circles and published in some newspapers intimating that the bout Tuesday night at Jersey City between Georges Carpenter and Battling Levinsky was not fairly fought, tonight brought strong denials from the principals and others interested in the contest.

"Before I came to America," said Carpenter in a signed statement, "I looked upon all Americans as the personification of fair play; of sportsmanship in the ring. I never dreamed of anything but a fair fight."

"I thought America was the land of the square deal. You went to war to insure the world fair play. I did all you asked me to do. I fought the man you selected for me to fight. And this is what I get—the fight is called a fake."

"Give me a square deal. That is all I ask."

"I pledge my honor as a soldier and a citizen of France to the great American republic that I fought to the best of my ability, and I sincerely believe from the bottom of my heart that Levinsky did the same."

Levinsky's statement said in part: "It is not possible for me to do anything to prove this. This cowardly attack on my honesty is undeserved. In regard to the fight, I know my vindication will come if ever Carpenter meets Dempsey. In the second round Carpenter hit me harder than I have ever been hit before. From that moment to the end of the contest, I was dazed."

John S. Smith, chairman of the New Jersey Boxing Commission, expressed the opinion that the bout was absolutely square.

HE'S YANKED FROM ALIAR TO JAIL
MARTENSBURG, W. Va.—David Gelford Smith, was yanked from the altar to jail, when Miss Myrtle Louden, the girl he didn't marry, told officials he was an escaped convict.

Smith, while boarding at the home of Gail Vaughn, courted Miss Louden, but when it came time for wedding bells, took Vaughn's daughter instead.

PLAYERS FINED FOR BACK TALK TO HIS MAJESTY
ST. PAUL, Oct. 14.—Fines have been imposed upon three St. Paul players and one Baltimore player as the result of arguing with Umpire John Quinn during the game between the two teams, it was announced tonight.

Dan Boone, shortstop, St. Paul, was assessed $50, and Leo Dressen, local first baseman, fined $25, for their misconduct yesterday at the local park.

Brazil, St. Paul utility man, must pay $25 and Outfielder Jacobson of Baltimore, a like amount for alleged offenses during the games at Baltimore.

The two teams will meet in the sixth game of their series here tomorrow with Baltimore having won four contests to St. Paul's one.

WOMEN TO MEET IN GOLF TITLE EVENT
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—Miss Alexa Stirling, Atlanta, women's national golf champion, will meet Mrs. Quentin Feltner, of New York tomorrow in one of the semi-final rounds of the Berthelcup tournament.

Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, eastern title holder, and Mrs. W. A. Gavan, New York, will meet in the other semi-final.

Miss Stirling today easily defeated Miss Marion Hollins, of New York, in the second round, 4 and 3.

INSIDER

Recently somebody wrote quite a song about Cuba way out in the sea. The spirit was right, in fact nothing was wrong.

If, as Judge, they will leave it to me, it speaks of the halahalo and the hip. Of the land where the traveler stops; it's based, so it seems, on the one little that in Cuba a man can buy schnapps.

And we have been wondering ever since whether this song had anything to do with these news items:

Babe Ruth, circuit smash champ, is soon to make a "home run" for the U. S. Navy in possession out in the Gulf waters.

Carl Mays, slick slinger for the New York Yanks, will fight with Ruth in the pineapple growing soil.

Steen other players will trail along! Now, one might gather the impression that the sweet odor of legitimate liquor might be attracting the erst-while ball tossers.

But listen Lester you've pulled a poor guess. Our hero, Ruth, is going to show the Cubans how he gathered his notoriety.

And Mays hopes to show the tanned folk what speed really is!

The rest of the lot will make up a regular baseball nine and Ruth-Mays and Company will stage about 15 ball games.

FOR MONEY?
Aw, cut out the kiddin'!

And, just incidentally, Jack Dempsey, who has been in the ring since 1915, is going to buy a ticket for the island.

Somebody over there wants his block knocked off!

Jack's going over and do the knocking. And he gets a mere bag of shakels for it—$100,000.

Gosh, we think we'll go over to Cuba ourselves!
